presidents column

Sylvia Cutler & Laura Reichgut, PTA Co-Presidents

Welcome back and Happy 2010! It's hard to believe we're starting a new decade and we welcome all the changes the New Year will bring. We certainly started it off cold and snowy and we anticipate a lot more winter weather over the next few months. With all the ice and snow we ask all parents to be patient when dropping off and picking up your children from school. Please give yourself extra time during inclement weather to ensure that our superstars remain safe. Also, please be cautious and courteous to other drivers when parking your vehicles and do not block driveways or park in reserved spots.

The South Mountain PTA Cultural Arts committee is thrilled to have Ms. Kitty Jones again for two shows on January 26th. "Kit's Interactive Theatre" is a wonderful one woman historical presentation with a creative and amusing depiction of life during historical times. Kindergarteners through 2nd grade will learn about the pioneers and our expansion out West, and grades 3-5 will experience the journey of the Immigrants to our country. Kit truly entertains and educates the children about history in a lively, funny, and unique style. We would like to acknowledge and extend a gracious thank you to Russell Kaplan for spearheading our cultural arts program this year. We appreciate all the time and effort he has spent with Tina Lehn to ensure that we have enriching assemblies for our students enjoy.

We hope you don't miss our South Mountain "Night of the Superstars" family skating party at the Florham Park Roller Rink on Thursday, January 28th from 5:30 to 7:30pm. Make sure to have your superstar wear school apparel and colors and come ready to enjoy some fun, games of course lots of skating! Admission is free and skate rental is nominal, or you're welcome to bring your own skates or blades. The snack bar will be open for refreshments and light fare. We look forward to seeing all of you for an evening of great fun!

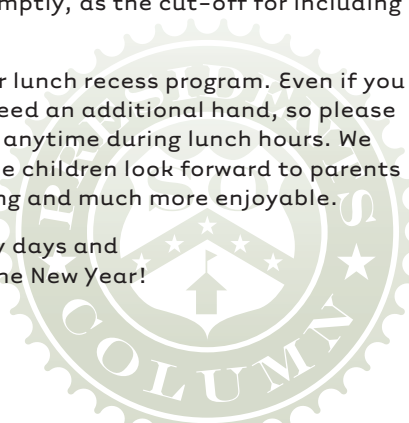

Our next General PTA meeting will be on Wednesday, January 20th at 8:30am at South Mountain in the cafeteria. The second meeting of the Midtown Direct series will present a discussion on "How to Communicate with your Child's Teacher" and will be facilitated by Lynne Toyne. Please join us as we discuss ways to establish strong relationships with your child's teacher. Come share a cup of coffee and conversation with other parents seeking support and guidance regarding our children's education.

As Valentine's Day is just around the corner, in February we will again offer our "Teacher and Staff Valentine Tribute" wishes. It's a wonderful and very easy way to acknowledge your child's teacher(s) and other staff at South Mountain that make their school special for them. Our PTA board collects the wishes and sends them with treats that will arrive on your teacher's desk on sweetheart's day. Make sure to look for the flier in your child's backpack shortly and return it promptly, as the cut-off for including your tributes will be February 8th!

Lastly, we always welcome help during our lunch recess program. Even if you can pop in only occasionally, we always need an additional hand, so please don't hesitate to just show up and sign in anytime during lunch hours. We appreciate any time you can spare and the children look forward to parents volunteering to make their recess enriching and much more enjoyable.

We hope you stay warm during these chilly days and thank you for your continued support in the New Year!

read to succeed program

The Six Flags Read to Succeed program is back...

The Six Flags Read to Succeed program began in January. Students who read recreationally for 6 hours during the program, and return a signed reading log by the announced deadline, will receive a free child's ticket to Six Flags. All forms must be in by February 12, 2010 - LATE FORMS WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED. Students cannot earn additional tickets by reading more than 6 hours. Students should return their form as soon as they have reached their six hours of reading, and not wait until the form deadline to submit the paperwork. Thank you. Last year, we had more than 110 students earn a free ticket to Six Flags. 🌟

principal's message

Tina Lehn, Principal

I would like to wish all our South Mountain families a very happy New Year. I hope that 2010 will be a year of growing and learning for all our children. I have noticed that with the New Year, almost all of the children are on time for school in the morning. We have significantly less stragglers coming in after the morning bell. Thank you to all of you who are nudging, nagging or encouraging your children to be on time.

Now that the cold weather looks like it is here to stay, I want to remind you of the morning routines. If the wind chill factor (not the temperature) is 21 degrees or below, the children will be brought in to the buildings. In the annex, the children will line up with their class in their assigned place in the cafeteria and their teacher will pick them up from there. In the Big School, the kindergarteners and first graders line up in the hall outside the main office and the library, and the 2nd-5th graders go to their assigned places in the auditorium. The teachers meet them there at 8:10 and bring them to their classroom.

A sign will be placed on the back and front door to inform the children whether it is an inside or an outside day. If your child usually goes around back to enter, on frigid days, please have them first check if it is indoor morning and if so, have them enter through the front of the building.

There have been many days lately when the children had to be indoors for recess. Our PTA has been working hard on organizing recess activities for the children and I am so grateful for all their hard work. The children are enjoying these additional activities. I will try to get the children out for some fresh air and exercise as much as possible during recess, but once the wind chill drops to 21 degrees, or there is precipitation, or it is icy, the children will be indoors.

There has been a persistent rumor that we have an infestation of lice and nits in South Mountain. I have been following this closely with our school nurses and I would like to reassure you that while there have been some cases reported to our nurses, and they have found some incidents, there have been no more incidents than any other year. It is really important, however, that you let the school nurse know if your children have lice or nits. They are very contagious and need to be treated immediately. The Parenting Center is sponsoring an informational evening on the detection and care of lice on February 11 in Clinton School. More information will be sent to all district families.

Our teachers welcome questions you may have concerning your child's well being in school. Please reach out to them if you have any questions about organization, homework, learning issues, or social emotional problems. Your child's teacher should be the first person you reach out to.

As I visit classrooms, I am so impressed with the quality of writing I see the children doing. They are learning about different genres and are writing significant pieces in these genres. There is a level of engagement and excitement as the children grow in stamina as writers.

Ask your child about what he/she is working on in writing workshop; what did they learn today from their teacher during the mini lesson; what are they working on during their independent writing time. I have seen the children working on Narrative writing, Small Moments, How To books, Non-fiction, Poetry, and Fiction. We have many budding authors at South Mountain, but most importantly, I see an enthusiasm and willingness to write that is a wonderful thing to witness.

Hello Superstars and Happy New Year! December was a busy month. We hope everyone enjoyed the break and is ready for 2010. Picture Re-Takes went well. Many thanks to Priscilla Goldman, Janet Christmann and Jen Ratner for chairing this entire event. The Holiday Bazaar portion of the World Winter Festival was well attended and considered a successful event.

We have continued to collect monies from the Walk-a-thon. To date we are at a 79% collection rate for a total of $9335. Many thanks to the South Mountain community for their support. For supporters who have yet to submit their pledges please make checks payable to South Mountain PTA. Continue to send in your Box Tops!! The school has received $631.74 for Box Tops submitted for the time period of September to December. Also, look for us at the January Roller Skating event. We'll be selling apparel and school spirit items and we hope to see you there.

Thank you.

CONGRATULATIONS SOUTH MOUNTAIN TEACHERS!

The South Orange-Maplewood Education Foundation (SOMEF) is pleased to announce that seven teacher grants have been awarded to South Mountain staff members. SOMEF's teacher grant program offers educators in all nine district schools the opportunity to apply for funding for their innovative classroom projects. SOMEF grants make it possible to expand student's learning using materials, equipment and creative strategies that exceed what can be accommodated within the constraints of the current school budget. In all, SOMEF awarded 53 teacher grants totaling $43,303.

SOMEF was faced with difficult funding choices in order to reach as many students as possible. Some projects were approved but did not receive the entire amount of funding that was requested, including the grants below marked with stars. Please consider making a donation to the grant of your choice, so that our teachers' innovative programs can be fully implemented. Each grant accepts partial funding, so even a small donation can make a difference in our South Mountain classrooms!

You can donate directly to these projects through January 31, 2010.

A list of the projects eligible for direct funding is on the SOMEF Web site at:

http://www.somef.org/what/direct_grant_funding2010.html

You can contribute toward South Mountain teacher grants or another grant of your choice either by check to PO Box 84, Maplewood, NJ 07040 or via PayPal on the website. Late funding donations can be accepted through January 31st.

And a word from the Corresponding Secretary...

See a newspaper article about a South Mountain child or program? Bring it in to the office at either school and we'll display it in our "In the News" section of the bulletin board.

Thanks!

Administration VP Co-Chairs

The indoor recess program began January 4. Thank you so much to each and every volunteer, your commitment is truly appreciated and makes such a difference to all the students during the cold winter months. With your support we now have enough volunteers most weeks for almost every classroom although there are still some days we could use extra help. If you have an hour to spare or are interested in being a substitute to be contacted in case someone can't make their assigned shift, please contact Amy at amygarysamlily@aol.com.

We also want to especially thank the coordinators who have put an incredible amount of time into organizing everything from the schedules to supplies...Randi Mandelbaum, Leslie Rubenfeld, Robin Stephan, Wendy Miller and Maria Witt...we are so very grateful for all your work!

And finally, we have a directory update. Congratulations to Alexis and Ariella Gubbay (in Ms. Buonocore's class) on their new home! Please note their new address is 48 Headley Place in Maplewood, their phone number remains the same.

We hope 2010 brings all you wish for!

LICE MYTH#1: Lice do not fly or jump, they can only crawl.

A Message from Judy LoBianco, Supervisor of Nursing Services

I am pleased to support the Parenting Center in its effort to discuss head lice on February 11, 2010 in order to dispel the myths and present the facts when it comes to lice. The evening will be facilitated by District School Nurse Julie Porter, RN.

During the opening months of school, it is characteristic of many elementary classrooms across the district to experience episodes of Pediculosis, also known as your friendly neighborhood "head lice". It is a very natural part of childhood social activity for kids to play, hug and touch each other in such a way that encourages the spread of lice.

Although the beginning of school is a very active time in the nurse's office for lice, it can spread at any time of year. The prevention, treatment and spread of lice are topics that may cause extreme emotional and anxiety. The Department of Nursing Services has a protocol in place to combat lice and prevent its spread throughout our classrooms and schools. However, we acknowledge that much of our success depends on the cooperation we receive from the parent community to assist us in making sure that nits are found and removed.

In my discussions with several parents of elementary-aged students over the years, I can tell you that the decisions for treatment are completely individual and based on a parent's experience with lice with one or more of their children. The first time your child is diagnosed with head lice, it's an extremely upsetting situation. On the bright side, I have heard parents tell me that it allowed for them to bond with their children at times when they were sitting with their kids picking nits for long stretches of time. I certainly acknowledge, however, that we'd all prefer to bond with our children another way!

The school nurses are the first line of defense in our school district when it comes to the fight against head lice and I feel it's important to let parents know the systematic approach we take to getting ahead of the problem before it spreads. To that end, the following is the procedure that is used by the district. I am sure that you will see that it demonstrates our commitment to not only preventing the spread of lice, but minimizing the disruption of instruction for all students.

DISTRICT PEDICULOSIS PROTOCOL

Head Lice (pediculosis capitus) are small parasitic insects that live on the scalp and neck hairs of their human hosts. Physically, they have remained unchanged for 2000 years. Lice are not a serious health threat because they do not cause illness. Complications related to infestation are rare; pruritis (itching) is the most common problem. It is critical in the prevention and control of pediculosis that the school and parent community work together.

In making recommendations for treatment, the school nurse is the most knowledgeable professional in the school community regarding pediculosis management. The parent/guardian will be educated as to the appropriate health information for treatment and prevention of pediculosis. A parent education program is in place at each elementary school in the South Orange-Maplewood School District as a means by which to prevent the spread of pediculosis. Classroom teachers will also be given information at the beginning of each school year.

Identification of Pediculosis

A child shall be determined to have head lice if the school nurse who examines him/her sees an active case of head lice. The parent/guardian will be notified to pick up the student from school and be given a fact sheet on head lice. The parent/guardian will also be asked to contact their pediatrician for prescribed treatment. When an active case of head lice is discovered at the elementary schools, the entire class will be screened by the school nurse. The school district nursing staff will communicate with each other in regard to siblings of the infected child. Middle and high school students will be screened on a case by case basis.

Identification of Nits

Nits are the eggs of the parasitic insects known as lice. In a study performed by the American Academy of Pediatrics (2000), it was found that children who had more than 5 nits within 1 cm or 1/2 inch of the scalp were more likely to develop an infestation. Therefore, the school nurse will not send home a child that has a mild case of nit infestation as determined by the school nurse. The presence of nits does not indicate active infestation.

The school district of South Orange-Maplewood agrees with the American Academy of Pediatrics as well as the National Association of School Nurses in their belief that a nit-free policy disrupts the education process and should not be an essential strategy in the management of pediculosis.

Parental Notification

When a child is discovered with a case of active head lice, letters will be sent to parents for that classroom only, informing them of the infestation along with recommendations. Siblings will also be screened and parents are encouraged to communicate with the parents/guardians of other children who have come in contact with their child. This includes friends, play dates and after school programs.

Returning to School

After treatment is administered and confirmed by the school nurse, the student must report to the school nurse's office accompanied by their parent/guardian. The child's hair will be re-checked at that time prior to the return to the classroom. The student must be completely free of visible lice to be re-admitted into school.

what is inclusion?

One of the goals of the South Orange-Maplewood School District's Special Education Department is to better prepare students with disabilities for life experiences by including them with their peers in the classroom. With that goal in mind, this school year, the district established at least one inclusion class in every grade level at each elementary school. Each inclusion class has a regular education teacher and a special education inclusion specialist.

A recent article in the Clinton Courier, Clinton's Elementary School's PTA newsletter, featured inclusion specialist Mr. Joe Ferriero. He has partnered with Miss Antonia Kent in her third grade class. Mr. Ferriero described his job as "making sure that all of the different learners [students with varied academic needs and learning styles] in Miss Kent's class are getting exactly what they need."

He explained that "in an inclusion class, two teachers get to enhance the learning of all of the students." Mr. Ferriero further explained that a child who struggles with one topic can receive individual attention from the inclusion teacher. "This is the true definition of 'no child left behind,'" he added.

Ms. Ella Rideau, Supervisor of Special Services explained the benefits of the way in which the district has structured its inclusion classes. "Students with special education needs have always been in regular education classes, but not always with the support of a special education teacher in the room. This year's inclusion initiative creates a more supportive environment for students with special needs, all day, every day."

Over a period of four days this past summer, the Special Education Department sponsored workshops for regular and special education teachers to help them develop the best way to work together so more special education students can be included in regular classrooms in the fall.

In addition to the summer workshops, inclusion pairs from each building and from each school recently attended a math workshop sponsored by the Math Association. The teachers learned about teaching math in a setting that includes special education students.

Dr. Patricia Barker, Director of Special Services, explained the inclusion initiative has received financial support from the government through stimulus and IDEA funds. One portion of the funding is being used for technology in the classroom while another portion is dedicated to teacher training.

Patricia Canning & Marietta Zacker, Programming VP Co-Chairs

We are starting the school year with some great events for the whole family. Please read the details below and save the dates. Topics of discussion for future PTA meetings include: the technology available in our school for children & parents and shaping the direction of the PTA. So stay tuned!

Morning General PTA meeting at the BIG SCHOOL!

Wednesday, January 20, 2010 – 8:30-9:30am, South Mountain

Please join us for a panel discussion guided by Lynne Toye. Parents of middle school students will join Lynne to share their experiences and discuss ways to build a healthy relationship with your child's teacher.

South Mountain Cares: Senior Appreciation

Sunday, January 24, 2010 – 11:00am-12:00pm

On January 24th, 2010, South Mountain Cares (SMC) will once again visit with the residents of Village Apartment, an independent retirement community in South Orange. Children and their families will interact with residents, play board games and share favorite art pieces, poems and other keepsakes. Due to space restrictions, this is limited to the first nine families that sign up. Other service-related opportunities are also being planned. If you are interested, please email Kanani Briggs at skbriggs1@gmail.com.

A NIGHT OF THE SUPERSTARS – Family Roller Skating Night

Thursday, January 28, 2010 – 5:30-7:30pm, Florham Park Roller Rink

Please wear our school colors or your favorite South Mountain gear. All children must be accompanied by an adult. Please RSVP to Wendy Miller (wemiller5@aol.com) with name and grade of child(ren), name of supervising adult and number of skate rentals needed.

Other Upcoming Events – SAVE THESE DATES as well...Tuesday, February 24, 7:30pm – Evening General PTA Meeting -

Technology in Action

Thursday, March 18, 6:00pm – Story Telling Night – Come dressed in your PJs to hear some of your favorite stories and discover new ones.

Peace in the new year for all,

Patricia & Marietta
